

Dear Bethels,

As part of this Supreme year's theme, Ignite Your Imagination, the Promotion Committee is excited to invite Bethels to take part in our Community Library Project (also known in many communities as Street or Little Libraries).

The theme Ignite Your Imagination encourages creativity, curiosity, and new ways of connecting with the world around us. Street libraries bring this theme to life by inviting people of all ages to pause, explore a story, and imagine something new. They are a simple and meaningful way to support literacy, inspire creativity, and build community connection.

By sharing books in a public space, we also create a gentle opportunity to raise awareness of Job's Daughters. Families who may not yet know who we are can discover our values through a visible act of service that reflects leadership, generosity and care for our communities.

How can your Bethel be involved?

Bethels can choose the level of involvement that works best for them. Some ideas include:

- Creating or sponsoring a local street or Little Library in your community at your local meeting place or lodge hall.
- Partnering with an existing library and stocking it with books that say donated by 'Job's Daughters'
- Using the pre-created Job's Daughters signs to clearly link the library to our organisation
- Placing Job's Daughters bookmarks with contact and website information inside the library
- Making the project part of a Bethel activity or service initiative

There is no single 'right' way to participate. Every contribution, big or small, helps ignite imagination while sharing the story of Job's Daughters with the wider community.

More information can be found at <https://littlefreelibrary.org/> Take a Book. Share a Book. - Little Free Library

What support is available?

To support Bethels and ensure consistent branding and messaging worldwide, the Promotion Committee has created a set of ready-to-use resources, all available on the website:

Printable Street Library signs identifying the project and Job's Daughters International Bookmarks.

We would love to see how your Bethel brings Ignite Your Imagination to life through this project. Please share photos to promotion@jdqld.org of your Street or Little Library project, whether it's installing a sign, stocking books, adding bookmarks, or working together as a Bethel.

Thank you for the many ways you continue to represent Job's Daughters in your communities. We look forward to seeing how you help ignite imagination this Supreme year.

Yours in Job's Daughters,

The Supreme Promotion Committee 2025-2026
Job's Daughters International